

Final Paper

Phil 151

ASSIGNMENT

This assignment it's too revise and expand the mid-term paper. You should try to address the feedback you received both from me and from your peer reviewer. However, your revision must have two features

- ✍ An expanded word count. The final paper should be 2250-2500 words total.
- ✍ Engagement with an additional figure from the second half of the course. Those figures include Beauvoir, Sartre, Camus, Wallace, Williams, and Wolf.

If your first draft included discussion of one of these figures, you do not need to add another one. However be sure that you discuss at least two philosophers— one from the first half of the course and one from the second.

INSTRUCTIONS

My advice for approaching this assignment is similar to the advice for the midterm with regard to the overall essay structure. I just you begin editing by reading and responding to the comments one by one. Use the extra length to add more detail where you think things may be unclear.

Once you've done that, look for another figure that fits well with your topic. The best choices will be figures who's ideas contribute to your argument, rather than are merely comparison cases. Add discussion of that figure where it seems most natural. That could be all at once or dispersed in several places. Finally, be sure to update your introduction and conclusion to reflect the addition.
